Many problems in graph theory ask for a partition of the vertices into sets, some of which are to be independent, or complete, and some pairs of which are similarly restricted to have all edges or no edges joining them. I will describe recent work on these kinds of partitions, with emphasis on algorithms and on forbidden subgraph characterizations.